

IDCTA Presents:

Four Key Attributes That Make a Successful Rider with Denny Emerson

January 13, 2021 | 7 p.m. CST

Join Eric Dierks in a Livestream interview with Denny Emerson, where he will share some stories of his colorful past, as well as his insights as to what makes a successful rider today.

Denny is the only equestrian to have won both an international gold medal in Eventing, and a Tevis Cup buckle in endurance. In 1972, Denny was named United States Eventing Association's Rider of the Year. He was a member of the United States Three-Day Eventing team that won the gold medal at the 1974 Eventing World Championships.

As of 2015, Emerson operates as a clinician and trainer. He is a regular contributor to The Chronicle of the Horse's "Between Rounds" column. He and his wife, May Emerson, run Tamarack Hill Farms in Strafford, Vermont and Southern Pines, North Carolina.
